Rockland Lions

Hear a Clear and Logical Talk On "Aptitudes" By Dr. James KentDr. James P. Kent was speaker at the Lions meeting Wednesday noon, his subject being, "Aptitudes." He sketched the development of a system of testing for aptitudes in order to obtain a basis for determining as near as possible just what kind of work one should take up to insure success.The system of testing was started by Johnson O'Connor, an engineer of the General Electric Company at Lynn, some 20 years ago, the object being to assist in placing employees in the positions for which they were best adapted. The Human Engineering Laboratory of Boston is devoted to this work of making tests for aptitudes and gives advice as to vocation which should be followed for best results.Dr. Kent, who has been deeply interested in the subject for some little time, took two of his children to Boston for tests a short time ago.
As a result of the tests one of the children has resumed her piano studies and the other is making good progress in "paper" work. Dr.
Kent said that it had been recommended that children be first tested at nine or ten years of age and also when in Grammar School High School and College, to the end that the person detect the relative changes in aptitudes coming about because of increasing age.He cited a few case histories, showing the excellent results of the system in a variety of circumstances. A brief open forum followed Dr. Kent's talk.President Bradford Burgess reported that there was no definite announcement to make concerning a proposed new meeting at Vinalhaven. Letters to club members in

A ROCKLAND GIRL HELPS

Barbara Sidelinger, Welder In Portland Shipyard—"Scared To Death At First"Mrs. Barbara Sidelinger "scared to death" when she began shipyard labors, but is doing famouslyWhen Lt. Herbert Sidelinger of Rockland went into service he suggested that his wife, Barbara, take his place at New England Shipbuilding Corporation, South Portland, where he had been a shipfitter in the yard. When he left this country for New Caledonia in June, 1943, Barbara was already hard at work, but not as a shipfitter because that work is a bit too arduous for a woman, but she found her place as a welder along with many other girls in the State of Maine.Barbara married a year after her graduation from High School. A year later her husband was sent to Lawton, Oklahoma, and she went with him. With her usual enterprise, she worked while her husband did. She was the first girl to drive a taxi cab in that city. She liked the work a lot and guessed it was successful, because two New York City girls and an Arizona girl were hired shortly afterward. Barbara watched her husband's ship gull out in June, 1943, and July 6 returned to Portland to do her part.The family is helping the war effort in full force. Lt. Comdr.
Horace Seaman, Barbara's father, is working with the merchant marine doing coastwise runs from Boston to Norfolk. Her brothers are in service too. Charles has recently enlisted in the Navy and is stationed at Sampson, N. Y., S. Sgt.
Richard is in a hospital in Iran after surviving a plane crash on June 15. Mrs. Seaman backs them up by keeping their home in Rockland.Barbara considers that she likes shipyard work as much as her husband did. She has been welding not only on the outside flats, but also right in the ships. "I was scared to death at first," Barbara confessed but after a short time found that shipbuilding really was nothing to be afraid of. Welding interests her and she likes it so well that she has persuaded several friends from Rockland to come to the yard and fishes others would join her too as there is a great need for women welders.Barbara lives alone in Portland and although she likes Bing Crosby she prefers to read as many short stories as she can find. She says that she is used to the yard and the car pool. She likes wearing trousers alright, but once in a while rises early so that she can put on a skirt.
She enjoys sharing wartime life with others but really looks forward to the time when her husband will return and when they can have a home of their own.A four-day session of the foremost cancer specialists of the United States opened at the Hotel Belmont in Bar Harbor Thursday.

On The Old "Arky"

Unscathed and with no casualties after 12 days of bombardment and precision firing off Normandy an assault on the German forts of Cherbourg and saturation firing during the invasion of Southern France, the USS Arkansas, is at Boston Navy Yard for a general overhaul.Eagerness of the crew, mostly from the East Coast, to have a hand in firing on the enemy was told with pride by Capt. Frederick G.
Richards of Newcastle, Maine.Anchored 6,000 yards off the French cliffs, the men of the Arkansas watched the pre-lancing air bombardment, the landings of the first waves of assault troops and then started the continuous precision firing, by turrets, which destroyed a French transportation center, a German fuel and supply train, and blasted a German tank counterattack.Firing from anchor, the Arkansas stayed along the Normandy coast for 12 days, the 12-inch guns hurling their shells eight miles inland, while the secondary batteries destroyed pill boxes, tanks, and enemy concentrations along the shore and cliffs. Anti-aircraft batteries, manned by United States Marines, kept what air action was seen at a safe distance and unofficially shot down three low-level Nazi bombers.Called from its support assignment, the Arkansas was part of the task force assigned to the destruction of the Cherbourg Forts.From the rugged encounter the old "Arky" was sent to support the invasion between Toulon and Nice.
Here the gun crews who missed out in the firings at Normandy and Cherbourg were given full opportunity. "We drenched the beaches," said Captain Richards.Ruth Crabtree, Louis Hanly and Lawrence O'Dell are on vacation from Perry's Main street market.

Book Review
K. S. F.

This attractive little "Treasure in Verse" is called just that, and William J. Whalen is the writer of these verses. Poetry is his warm and human way to convey the clear and fine philosophy of life he has revealed to his many admirers. The Christopher Publishing House of Boston has been wise in its charming little book to hold its thoughts. K. S. F. hearts are most always awake to poetry. It reveals life in its many turns more vitally than prose. A bit of help by one's bedside after the heavy duties and cares of the day, to quiet the mind and cause rest for a weary heart.

A Veteran Armorer

Corporal Harold W. Poole of Vinalhaven Member of the Mustang Group

An Eighth Air Force Fighter Station, England—Corporal Harold W. Poole of Vinalhaven, is a member of an Eighth Fighter Command P-51 Mustang group which recently passed the 450 mark in victories over Nazi planes, becoming the third American fighter group in the European Theatre of Operations to make such a record.

Corporal Poole is a veteran armorer in a Mustang squadron stationed here and his work contributed to the group's high record of combat efficiency. As a part of the organization which enables the fighter pilots, to devote all their time and energy to the pursuit and destruction of the Luftwaffe, he is helping to keep American fighter planes in combat against the enemy over every corner of occupied Europe.

This fighter group, commanded by Col. William J. Cummings Jr., of Lawrence, Kansas, established a record for American units in this theatre when it destroyed 44 enemy planes on the ground and seven in the air in one mission. And in four low-level attacks, the group destroyed 118 German planes on the ground, an average of more than 29 per mission.

Cpl. Poole was inducted into the Army in August, 1942.

[EDITORIAL]

JULIEN EXPLAINS DEFEAT

The Democratic party in Maine has been short on organization, but it certainly has an outstanding optimist in the person of Paul J. Julien of Waterville, who went down to overwhelming defeat as the candidate for Governor. He explains his Waterloo in two words—"organization money." "Had there been ample organization and money," he says the result might easily have been the reverse. This might serve as an explanation for the light vote Julien received, but would hardly explain away Hindreth's majority which was in excess of 75,000. We sympathize with the defeated candidate, to a degree, but he might as well tell that story to the Marines.

"COTTON ED" IS STILL FIGHTING

"Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina who was recently defeated for Senate nomination, hasn't abandoned his attempt to help defeat President Roosevelt. He has called a meeting of anti-New Deal Democrats to be held in Washington this week-end, and has invited to it "all the real honest to God people in the country." "Cotton Ed" not only wants to defeat his ancient enemy, the President, but wants, he says, "to capture the Democratic party from Sidney Hillman."

TOUGH ON FINLAND BUT—

Russia's terms for armistice with Finland were very exacting—"the hardest in Finnish history" according to Acting Premier Baron Von Born. Belief that they would be doubtless prevented the Finnish government from reaching a treaty long ago. But with defeat inevitable there seemed no other course. Finland has the sympathy of its friends everywhere, but while the peace terms are excruciatingly hard, the results are doubtless preferable to loss of life, homes and property. Utter extinction offered no recompense.

THOSE FIVE WHISTLES

Five blasts of the local sardine whistles make merry music in the ears of the operatives who pull down many an honest dollar in the run of the Summer months. The two factories have proven undisputed blessings to this city, and the success of the manufacturers spells prosperity for those among whom the receipts are divided. The easterly winds are cheerfully forgiven.

TIME FOR PUBLIC PROTEST

Protesting against what they describe as "the brazen campaign of the Political Action Committee to install Sidney Hillman as the power behind the throne of a fourth term administration," well known writers and other persons have organized the Independent Voters' Protest Committee. The organization is headed by Channing Pollock, the playwright, as chairman and John W. Hanes, former undersecretary of the Treasury under the Roosevelt Administration, is treasurer. Other members include Louis Bromfield, Booth Tarkington, Kenneth Roberts, Rupert Hughes and Roy Chapman Andrews. Pollock said the committee would depend upon popular contributions for support and would conduct a campaign through newspaper advertisements, the first of which are scheduled to appear soon in New England papers.

LET'S BEGIN RIGHT NOW

It may be just a trifle early to be planning a V-Day celebration, but the resolution passed by the city's clergymen and printed on another page is in line with what other cities are doing, and will meet with full approval. How many readers of this paragraph are aware of the fact that Rockland never had a formal celebration of the Armistice Day of 1918? It is true that there was an informal haphazard parade on Main street, but no celebration on the scale that the circumstances warranted. We believe that Mayor Veazie should appoint a committee at once and that it should begin a series of conferences as to how the situation can best be met. Celebrations worthy of the name may be born over night, but it takes time and concerted effort to carry them out.

One of the earliest and one of the ablest Presidents of the United States is reported to have tied his horse to a tree in the Capitol grounds in Washington and to have taken the oath of office without further ceremony. Since that day inaugural observances have varied in extent and extravagance. There have been military and civic delegations from many states, with all their appurtenances; there have been governors and bosses; special trains filled with Tammany men and other political organizations; fireworks, banners, inaugural balls, and other expenditures that made the beginning of a new administration or the continuance of an old one an event of major importance in the life of the national capital.

Gradually these splendors paled. Several times it befell that March 4 happened in bitter winter weather and casualties were heavy. Jan. 20 was therefore substituted as the day for the beginning of a new Presidential term. The baleful shadow of the income tax also dampened popular enthusiasm, and, one by one, the more elaborate features of Inauguration Day ceased to be observed.

While extraordinary importance attaches to next Jan. 20, when either Governor Dewey or President Roosevelt will be sworn in on the east front of the Capitol, Congress seems to have made up its mind that it will be just as well if no money is wasted on formalities, no matter who is successful. Washington, being already overwhelmed by the complex machinery of war, overcrowded and uncomfortable, is in no mood to welcome additional swarms of visitors to add to the confusion. Consequently appropriations are likely to be cut to the bone, and stands and platforms dwindle along the line of march. The course of the war between now and Jan. 20 undoubtedly will have its influence on the ceremonies. Should it have a triumphant end before that time the inauguration of a President would have special significance. Should hostilities still be in an undetermined state, cutting ceremonial expenditures probably would be considered by the general public to be wise. In view of the terrific monetary problems that must be faced in the future, Frugality may thus have its official beginning Jan. 20, if not earlier.—Herald Tribune

WITH THE EXTENSION AGENTS AND THE KNOX-LINCOLN FARM BUREAU

Thinned Wood's Pay

With the demand good for pulp, either pine, spruce or fir, now is the time to do some work in the farm lumber lot. If there is a mixed stand, cut out the fir and poor trees and leave only the best. The trees that are left will grow much faster and produce some fine lumber that can be sold at a good price.

There have been many lots thinned in Knox and Lincoln counties through the assistance of the Extension Service and County Farm Bureau. Anyone interested in thinning and pruning may obtain bulletins or information from County Agent R. C. Wentworth, Rockland, Maine.

They Saw "Lindy"

Letter Dealing With Hero's Arrival In Havana In 1928

Rose Hill Farm, Owl's Head, Me., Sept. 16

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:

I have read with interest the recent items in The Black Cat about "Lindy" and I am sending you a letter sent me in 1928 by Mrs. Walter Felton of Bolton, Mass., agent of the subject.

My husband was foreman of Prospect Farm, the Felton Estate in Bolton at the time. The letter shows how much we all revered "Lindy" at that time.

I well remember seeing him fly over the farm the following June, I think, on his trip from Albany to Boston. We knew by radio, his approach and departure from various way stations and soon after his leaving Worcester or Pittsburgh the plane for which we were watching appeared in the West and flew directly overhead. In less than time it takes to write it, Boston broadcast his arrival at the East Boston Air Port.

Mrs. Felton's Letter

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 12, 1928

Mr. Felton and I had the pleasure of seeing Charles A. Lindbergh arrive at the flying field near here. Thursday they had a reception for him at the American Ambassador's from 4 to 7 and all Americans were invited. But I did not go as Mr. F. did not care to and I did not want to go alone.

He was now employed in New York. The newlyweds are expected here Oct. 1 for a visit with Mr. Mitchell's parents, and will leave Oct. 5 for Tampa, Fla., where they will make their home.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Adrien Carver of Patten. The bride wore white and carried a bouquet of carnations. The matron of honor wore a gown of blue.

Eight o'clock that evening a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents at 150 Union Street, Rockland. The couple received many gifts and refreshments, which included a three-tier wedding cake, were served by Miss Bernice Mitchell and Miss Betty Blackford.

Mrs. Mitchell attended Patten school and has been employed at the Camden Shipyard. Mr. Mitchell attended the Rockland schools and had been employed at Feyer's and more recently at the Camden Shipyard. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell left Monday for Patten where they will make their home.

The North Nobleboro Sunny Side-Up Club met Sept. 15, at the Community Building. Mrs. Anna Hardy club agent, helped the members with account sheets and discussed exhibit requirements. The next meeting will be Sept. 22 when the program for the local exhibition which is to be Oct. 3, will be rehearsed. Paul Perri is the local leader.

Saturday, Sept. 23, the Warren Wonder Workers will collect waste paper, rags, and scrap iron. At their Sept. 15 meeting held at the home of their leader, Mrs. Edna Moore, two new members, Ray and Annette Cogan, were enrolled for the 1945 club year.

INTIMATE VIEWS OF VINALHAVEN

History, Home Life and Personal Recollections

By SIDNEY L. WINSLOW

Vinalhaven in other days

(Seventh Installment)

It is to be deplored that there has been so little concerning the summer side of the life of our early inhabitants, handed down for the enlightenment and amusement of future generations.

"Caring for the Sick at Home," a two-day course, taught by the home demonstration agent is a recent addition to the Extension Service program. These courses were included in the program to give a few fundamentals in taking care of sick people in these days when doctors and nurses are so scarce. How to take temperature and count pulse, make a bed with a patient in it, give a bath, prepare trays, and make patients comfortable are only a few of the sick-room practices that have been taught in connection with this course in the last two years.

The course has already been taught in the following nine communities: Boothbay, Pleasantville, Tenants Harbor, Whitefield, Washington, Bremen, Dresden, North Edgcomb, and Burkettsville.

In 1945, an additional meeting will be held in these communities. At this meeting, how to care for minor illnesses at home and simple first-aid will be stressed. In communities or neighborhood groups where the course has not already been given, the 2-day course will be taught similar to the one in 1944. Any group that is interested in having a course should contact the home demonstration agent.

First Settlements, Etc.

It is recorded that the first settlement was established in Vinalhaven 1765, but by whom nobody seems to know.

A man by the name of Francis Cogswell operated a sawmill here as early as 1760, but he was here only during the Summer months and did not make his home here. The site of the sawmill is where the Duncan Grain and Feed store stands today. (Formerly Lane and Brown Grist Mill).

Mr. Cogswell acquired a considerable amount of property here which he later sold to Thaddeus Carver. Including 700 acres of land. The deed which sustained this transaction is today one of the most prized possessions of Mr. Carver's descendants. It is done in excellent handwriting and is in a good state of preservation.

Following is the text of the document, published for the first time, and through the kindness of Mrs. Jennie Patterson, great-granddaughter of Thaddeus Carver.

"Know all men by these presents that I, Francis Cogswell of Ipswich in the County of Essex & Province of Massachusetts Bay Yeoman in consideration of the just sum of two hundred and sixty-six pounds, thirteen shillings and four pence lawful Money of S. Province already paid me by Thaddeus Carver of Fox Island in the County of Lincoln Province & Province of aforesaid Yeoman, have remised, released & forever quit claimed and by these Presents do remise and release forever quit claim unto him the said Thaddeus Carver and his Heirs and Assigns, all the Right, Title & Interest which I have in & to a certain Tract of Land containing about seven hundred Acres be the same more or less lying on the South Fox Island (so called) in the County of Lincoln bounded as follows viz: beginning at the South Easterly Corner thereof at a Fir Tree. Thence running Northwest-erly one Mile by the land of Abraham Dodge, thence running North-east north only one Mile and a half, thence running Southeast Southerly on a straight Line to the head of MacLather's Cove, thence running as the shore runs to the fore-mentioned corner, together with all the Sawmills standing and being therein, and also a certain Island called Griffin's Island, lying adjacent to said Fox Island, the County aforesaid continuing about sixty acres to the same more or less excepting two Lots of Land lying within the Bounds of the first of Land above described, containing one hundred and fifty acres each, called MacLather's Lot and Jewell's Lot, the said Thaddeus Carver being now in Possession thereof. To have and to hold the above remised and released Premises, and all the Privileges and Appurtenances thereof to him the said Thaddeus Carver, his Heirs and Assigns forever.

And I, Anstie Cogswell, wife of the above Francis Cogswell do hereby relinquish & give up all my Right of Dower in the above described Premises to him the S. Thaddeus Carver & to his Heirs and Assigns forever.

In witness thereof we do hereunto set our Hands and Seals this twenty-third day of September Anno Domini 1776.

Signed, Sealed & delivered in presence of John Manning, A. T. Carver, Francis Cogswell, Anstie Cogswell

"Lane's Island was then known as Griffin's Island.

But where is MacLather's Cove. Is it what we call Carver's Pond today?

HAVENER-SMITH

Francis Earle Havener, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Havener of Rockland, and Miss Dorothy Hayes Smith of Norfolk, daughter of Samuel M. Smith of Belhaven, N. C., and the late Mrs. Smith, were married Aug. 26 in the Chesterfield Heights Church of Christ, Norfolk, Va., Rev. John Halbert Brown, minister of the Church of Christ in Charlottesville, reading the double ring service.

Potatoes were first discovered by white men in Columbia, South America in 1538. Soon this health-giving vegetable became popular until now millions of bushels are grown and used all over the world.

The latest call is a real S.O.S. for help in the orchards of Maine.

Referring to the Belfast & Moosehead Lake R. R., the Belfast Journal tells this story well: One of the very few municipally owned railroads in the United States, its president is Carence A. Paul, garage operator and automobile and farm machinery distributor, who serves as its official head without remuneration. The road's treasurer, Jacob S. Holmes, an executive with a local fuel company; and its secretary, Maurice Lord, deputy collector of internal revenue for this district, receive only nominal salaries. It has only two full time officers, Walter L. Bowen, general manager, and Wilfred I. Hall, auditor.

Youth, comparatively speaking, is at the head of the road, for Mr. Bowen is but 47, Mr. Hall 31 and the three girls of the office staff twenty or under. It has in all 33 employees. Its 33 miles of track from Belfast to Burnham Junction where it joins the Maine Central tracks, lie entirely in Waldo County, with four agency stations and sidings for freight along the route. It has for rolling stock three locomotives, three passenger coaches, two baggage and mail cars, a caboose, a snow plow, a flanger, a wreck car, two flat cars, and Motor No. 4, a bright red Model A Ford with flanged wheels used for inspection and fire fighting, and so named because its initial cost was $90.

Lord Halifax, in an address at Bowdoin College, used these wise words, words on which all of us should meditate: "We have found in these days much on which we laid great store was, after all, comparatively valueless; and that other things, which from long familiarity we had taken for granted—emanation of thought, the sanctity of human personality, the finer qualities which lie at the root of our relations with one another, all that we associate with our Christian inheritance—were things that mattered more than life itself."

It is said many Servicemen who come home later, will have to learn to laugh again. The pent-up spontaneity will need much instruction for functioning.

STEAMBOAT DAYS

An informal pictorial history of steam navigation in Penobscot waters.
By John M. Richardson

Rockland's own by virtue of bearing the name Governor Cobb, this great turbine steamer is crowning a long and worthwhile life by serving in the great war as an active combat vessel. Photo courtesy William A. Holman.

The fine steamship depicted above was named for a first citizen of Rockland, a governor, a ship owner and long a director of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Hon. William Titcomb Cobb.
The Gov. Cobb came out in 1906 from the yards of Chester, Pa. a steel turbine ship of 2522 gross tons, 289.1 feet long by 54 feet by 18 feet. Her engines developed 5000 indicated horsepower to the 2500 of the much larger Gov. Dingley which accounted for the Cobb's reputation for great strength and speed. She was equipped with radio and all the then modern conveniences an outstanding steamer for 1906.
She was built primarily for the long Saint John-Boston run of the Eastern Steamship Co. touching at times at Portland, Lubec and East-

Ralph Wallace who has been residing in North Waldoboro for several years, is now with his grandchildren Florida and Havana, finally winding up in Eastern hands again, laid up near Atlantic avenue in Boston where I last saw her in 1940 as I recall, looking forlorn indeed. Press reports next had the ship bought by New York parties to be used as a trailer ferry, a plan which never materialized. Rumor afterward had the Cobb tied up in Philadelphia with some sort of a legal ailment.

Today the Gov. Cobb has come royally into her own again. She has been converted to an active combat ship by the U.S.C.G., her great power and high speed fitting perfectly these war time requirements.

CHURCHES

SERMONETTE

Union Station, Portland
The Jewish New Year 5705, was ushered in Sept. 18. That is a long time, measured by human history. On that day all English, American and Christian nations saluted Jewish brethren.

No race has ever suffered more for 58 centuries than the Jewish people. What Hitler has done to them should never be forgotten or forgiven the German people. For all these long centuries that Jews have worshipped the one true God, the Apostle Paul was a Jew. He was educated at the feet of Gamaliel, their great teacher. He, however, came to realize that their religion was global. It was not alone for the Jews but for the Gentiles as well.

The Book of Acts closes with the story of the Apostle's journey toward Rome. On board of a ship out of Alexandria, they landed at Syracuse and came to Puteoli. Jewish brethren came to meet him as far as Appia Forum and the Three Taverns where, when Paul saw he thanked God and took courage and spoke to them. For the hope of Israel, "I am bound with this chain." Here "Paul dwelt two years, in his own hired house, and received all who came to him."

"Preaching the Kingdom of God and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ." Paul's Jewish brethren did not accept his viewpoint, nor have they since, but Christians, Protestant and Catholics and those of the Jewish faith are growing in solidarity, in their trust and faith in God whom they love and trust and in whom all have their being. May this oppressed people be entering into the happiest year of the entire 5705.

W. A. Holman
